Clockwise from right: Donning their robes, seniors Kathleen Wingfield, Prestonia Kier, and Holly Enyart gather on Front Quad before making it up to the cemetery for Founder's Day.

Wanting to give her apartment front yard the trashiest look possible, Katie Sweetman '00 finds that the picture wouldn't be complete without a swig from her bottle of vodka.

While on the Nepal trip, seniors Emily Wheat and Darby Russell are shown some of the moves by the locals.

During 100th Night, one of the skits was performed by Lisa Hardin '00 and Cabell Martin '00. Their act consisted of a comedy routine that were aided by matching electric ties that blinked.

PEOPLE

If there were not any people at Hollins, then the very heart of the University would cease to exist. People are what make Hollins the place that it is. Take away the academics and the traditions and you will have taken out the very core of what drives this institution.

Q and A with Tiffany Hamby, Freshman Class President

Q: What has it been like to be the Freshmen Class President?

A: It's been fun...busy, demanding, and hectic at times, but all things considered, I wouldn't have given it away.

Q: Have there been any accomplishments for the class that you are proud of?

A: I am really proud of everything the class has done together: serving in committees, working on Tinker Day, fundraisers, sticking together during the boy-shortage in Tinker...they have done it all and have done it well.

INTERVIEW WITH JULIANNE REIGHARD, JUNIOR CLASS PRESIDENT

"The Juniors are a fun group of women and they have been a good group to work with. We have had sister class socials, Ring Night, ushering, and sales of the Zippo lighters. I had the opportunity to meet new people by getting to know the officers. A lot needed to get done and it was more challenging than I expected, but it has been a really great experience. "

After Four Years, it's Time to Say Goodbye

It is hard to believe that this is the end. For those of us who have been here since arriving in August of 1996, senior year has been a culmination of four years spent in anticipation of graduation. But now that that time is here, we find ourselves gripping to every last moment, perhaps hoping that the moment wont come as fast. The time we spent at Hollins has created an indelible mark upon our lives-- it has been a time when we became women, made new friends, met new loves, lost friends and loves, and in the end, ultimately learned who we were. We walk out of this school knowing that Hollins has changed us and years from now we will look back in amazement and realize how important this time was.

Lisa Ashworth:
I am so thankful for my caring family for financially, emotionally, and spiritually supporting me. I am also indebted to my close friends for helping to create the unforgettable memories that I will always treasure. Hollins has prepared me with a firm foundation for law school. My years have been well spent and I know that I will look back to those years with wistful longing to re-capture those 'stress-free' days.

"Do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your minds, so that you may discern what is the will of God-- what is good and acceptable and perfect."
- Romans 12:2

Lexie Arnett:
"You can never leave without a peice of youth.
And our lives are forever changed
We will never be the same."
-Smashing Pumpkins

"And I'll be back around again
Yes I will walk in time with you old friend
And we'll find that place
That we danced in so long ago."
-Dave Matthews Band

Thank you to all my amazing friends that Hollins has helped me to konw, to the incredible faculty who has supported me at Hollins, and most of all to my wonderful and loving family to whom I owe my experience at Hollins.

Megan Baptiste:
"We shall not cease from exploration
And the end of all our exploring will be to arrive where we started
And know the place for the first time."

Jennifer Bolton:
"Generally, by the time you are real, most of your hair has been loved off, and your eyes drop out and you get loose in the joints and very shabby. But these things don't matter at all, because once you are Real you can't be ugly, except to people who don't understand."

Passing of the Robes
ONE SENIOR'S EXPERIENCE

EDITORIAL BY JACKIE HARTSIEL '00

Next to Ring Night, the Passing of the Robes ceremony is my favorite tradition here at Hollins.

When I was a junior, I received letter near the end of second semester to be at the back steps of Main on certain day where the seniors would present them with robe. It was then that I received my robe. The ceremony was such an emotional experience: I felt excitement and honor over receiving this new possession. At the same time, I felt extremely sad and frightened with the realization that my friend was really graduating and that I was becoming a senior.

I received the Super R.A. robe, which belonged to two previous R.A.'s-- Danni Vellines '98 and Lindsay Freedman. With all of the residence halls on the back, the robe is quite darling. On the front are various other adornments quite familiar to the R.A., like jingling keys and a cellular phone.

I have taken great joy in wearing the Super R.A. robe this semester for First Step, Ring Night, and Tinker Day Scares. Each time I put it on, I remember my friends who have graduated; it is a constant reminder that they are still in my heart. The robe has been a great source of pride for me, and will remain one of my most treasured memories in years to come. Despite my love for the robe, I look forward to passing it onto another worthy R.A. in the spring.

First Step

Walking on Quad for the first time

BY KATIE SWEETMAN '00

Opening Convocation not only marked the start of the 1999-2000 school year, but also the point at which the Class of 2000 officially became seniors.

On August 31, seniors put on their robes for the first time and assembled in duPont Chapel to hear President Janet Rasmussen open the 157th session of Hollins University. After Convocation, it was time for the seniors to partake in a rather symbolic rite of passage.

As dictated by tradition, only seniors could walk across Front Quad and so many students looked forward to the moment when it would be their turn to step onto the grass. The time had come for the Class of 2000 and they lined up along Front Quad shortly after the end of Convocation. With a bottle of champagne in hand, the seniors waited for the motion to come from senior class president, Emily Wheat, to commence with the first step.

To many seniors, First Step is a watershed for her last year at Hollins. "It made me realize that I was a senior," said senior Martha Tubman.

Champagne bottles were uncorked in the midst of loud cheering, but it took a few minutes for the seniors to rush the grass. "There was less unity this year than others," said senior Amanda Warner.

Though the flow onto the grass was more like a trickle, the seniors finally demonstrated some unity by later storming the dinner line with champagne bottles in hand, cutting in front of the underclassmen.

Lonice Cherebin:
Hollins has been an enriching experience for me. Thank you to everyone that made that possible. I will never forget all the good and not so good times that we have shared. There will never be anyone else that I can act like a fool with, laugh at everything with, or go places we have No business going with like I have with you. You will forever be a part of my heart. I will miss you and please remember at some point - You have to draw a line!

Michelle Christian:
When I first stepped onto Front Quad, I knew Hollins was where I wanted to be. Hollins has allowed me to grow and will always remain a part of me. I want to thank the Psychology Department for their endless help, the "gals" in the registrar's office for putting up with me, and most of all, my family and friends for their continuous love and support.

Nancy Cobb:
"Three be the things I shall never obtain: envy, content, and sufficient champagne."

The past four years have flown by for me. Many thanks to Professor Lynch and Coach Orrison for their time and understanding. Best of luck to all my friends as they venture out into the "real world" - I'll be putting that off as long as possible as I plan to get my masters in education. Love to the hockey team, all of SGA, and ADA. Much love to my family, without whom, I'd never have made it through here. And everyone remember to vote for me about twenty years down the road when I'm running for the U.S. Senate.

Carey Desmarais:
ADH, KES, JAH, ASG, ALJ, JLK, SLP, KRS, ECW - I luv you all! Spurs and KTRA Roomies forever! Never forget 70+2, Myrtle Beach, JMU, Bob's house, Chubby Bubby! Macado's, Express, Love Shack, SVH.

"Never a Dull Moment" Thanks to my friends, The Three Musketeers, my family of four married children, their spouses, my professor for being so supportive, mostly to my husband, Bill for his wealth of patience and love. Also, my four incredible grandchildren, Billy, Lauren, Stephanie, and Sarah, "It's Never Too Late." I am proud of you all. My future includes travel, relaxing, and FUN with an Antique Gift Shop on Buck Mountain Road, Roanoke Co. PIZZAZZ. Come see me!

Let's see, career goals. . . to conquer the planet; but I'll settle for a fun career writing and illustrating children's books.

Thanks to Hollins-- the faculty (especially the Art Department) and staff have been wonderful.

I also want to thank all of my loved ones who put up with all my weirdness, took pleasure in my happy moments, and stood by me through my rough times. To my family, thank you (especially for sending me to Hollins) and know that I love you dearly. To Maria, I definitely feel like part of your family (minus Fidel, that is. Ha!) And to my best friend, Kalyca, I will always thank God for you, my fellow hybrid alien. Remember, "Reality is merely an illusion, albeit a very persistent one. " - Albert Einstein

Celestine Garcia:
Although I haven't been here from beginning to end as most of you spent your first night here at Tinker, I do feel a bond with those few that I have been very fortunate to know. On the road of life, we all get stuck on the side of the road, not knowing what or how we'll get started again. To my crew of three that made Hollins a great experience although we've probably gained at least 50 lbs together by the time this book comes out, I love you and will forever hold you near. I thank the stars above for my Mom, Jerome and Dallas for their unconditional love, support, understanding and patience with my "WB" attitude. Appreciate the life that you have and the people that you are blessed to share it with. You never know what tomorrow might bring and live each day to your fullest capacity and never fear because fear is just an excuse. "To fear love is to fear life . . ." Bertrand Russell

THE HARVEST HOUSE
A SENIOR HANGOUT

BY JENN SELF '00

The Harvest House, otherwise known as Chez Harvest, has been a Hollins stomping ground for the past twenty five years. From the glitter on the walls and the tacky Christmas lights to the cardboard cutout of John Wayne on the stage, the Harvest House has a distinctive atmosphere.

The first Tuesday of each month has been designated as Hollins nights, which also doubled as fund-raisers for the senior class. "It's a great night for seniors to get together and live it up. This year, it's been very successful and karaoke was extremely popular," says Emily Wheat, senior class president. Hollins nights featured reduced cover charges and dollar drafts. This brought men from Hampden-Syndney, UVA, and Washington and Lee, and other surrounding area universities.

Seniors Margaret Carroll and Jenn Self started off the semester with a bang by acting as guest DJ's to help raise funds. When Margaret and Jenn DJ'ed, some of the most requested songs were "Carolina Girls", "Sweet Home Alabama", and "Brown Eyed Girl". These songs have been sung and danced to for as long as Gene and Doug, the Harvest House owners, can remember. Though Roanoke offered other night spots for Hollins women to flock to, the Harvest House still remained a tradition for Hollins seniors.

Tinker Day Scares

Banging the Pots and Pans

BY KATIE SWEETMAN '00

Though they were much cause for controversy and even came up for debate in Senate, Tinker Day scares went off without a hitch despite the grumblings of a few vocal sophomores.

The tradition began as a way for seniors to get students excited about the impending Tinker Day, which always occurs in October. Seniors started early and had completed two of their scares by the end of September.

From a senior standpoint, the anticipation of the scare was immense. Members of the class of 2000 donned their robes and gathered with their pots and pans in the soccer field outside Tinker. Adrenaline ran high once the motion was made to storm Tinker A-wing.

"Tinker Scares should have been an Olympic sport," said senior Amanda Griffin who was caught off guard by how arduous it was to sprint down the halls of each floor. "By the second scare I had learned to pace myself."

The second scare not only caught the freshmen off guard, but almost fooled the campus when the seniors ran through Tinker, Randolph, and West dorms at 6:45 am in late September. Though it was only September, many students were fooled into thinking that it was Tinker Day.

By the last scare, which came on October 5, the freshmen had caught on and were waiting for the seniors with squirt guns and silly string. After the dust had settled, the only casualties were a few chipped doors, some broken white boards, broken pots, and some voices strained by screaming.

Founder's Day
Honoring Charles Lewis Cocke

BY KATIE SWEETMAN '00

On February 17, the members of the Hollins community celebrated the anniversary of the founding of Hollins University in 1842.

The story of Hollins' founding seems to be ingrained into every student when she first arrives and the story has come to embody a mythic quality. Take one man, who in 1846 was asked to take over an ailing seminary for men and women, and somehow a century and a half later a legend was born. People see Charles Lewis Cocke as a visionary who turned an institution towards the devotion of a woman's education during a time when it was not the norm for a woman to be educated.

Even after 158 years, it was still apparent that the somber tradition of honoring the memory of Cocke had not waned. A large contingent of the senior class made its way up to the Cocke family cemetery— an improvement upon last year's attendance by the Class of 1999.

Emily Wheat, senior class president, led the procession to the cemetery with Associate Professor of Biology, Renee Godard as the faculty representative. "The ceremony was so beautiful," said Nicole Janowski '00. "All of the sudden you realize what the tradition holds. You felt like everyone was feeling the meaning behind Hollins history."

With members of the Class of 2000 gathered among the headstones, Wheat placed a wreath at the grave of Cocke with a moment of silence ensuing. Wheat also said a few words in honor of the Hollins founder before reading the lyrics to the song "The Green and the Gold."

After coming down from the hill, the seniors were given flowers by the members of the Class of 2002 to carry in to the Jessie Ball duPont chapel for Convocation. Lee Smith '67 provided humorous address on what it means to be a "good ol' girl" which proved to be a good segue into the evening's festivities of a southern inspired meal and the performance of "Good Ol' Girls."

Hundreth Night

COUNTING DOWN TILL GRADUATION

BY KATIE SWEETMAN '00

By the time that 100th Night rolled around, it became obvious that the Class of 2000's time at Hollins was nearing a close.

Intended as a tradition for the Senior class to celebrate that they had a hundred days left until graduation, members of the Class of 2000 gathered on February 25 to remember their time spent at Hollins. Seniors were served pizza, subs, and other munchies by members of the Junior class. In addition to the banquet, Joan Thurman '00 compiled a video slide show that featured student's pictures— some spanning all the way back to freshman year. Though it was sad at some times, some seniors managed to have a good time.

"I had a blast at 100th Night," said Jacy Bartlett '00. "I had a bottle of mimosa from my ring sisters because I missed Opening Convocation."

The nostalgic trip through the past four years was followed by skits, ranging from song and dance numbers to monologues. Seniors also got to take a look at the surveys that they filled out freshman year. "I found out that my road tripping school of choice was in fact my road tripping school of choice," said Mira Zawadzki after seeing what she wrote as her senior year predictions.

After all was said and done, there were some seniors that were a little disappointed by how the tradition played out. "It was a let down because it was just a video and some skits. There was no class bonding," said Jil Howland.

Looking Back

THE CLASS OF 2000 OVER THE PAST FOUR YEARS

BY CJ HAWN '00

For years, the Hollins alumnae bumper sticker has sported the adage, "Women who are going places start at Hollins."

Although there is no doubt of the truth in that statement, it is time as Seniors to look at the places the Class of 2000 has been so far. They have been in hundred of classes and have learned new approaches and have built on their knowledge and experience.

The Class of 2000 has participated in athletic events, organizations, and clubs which have changed the pace and direction of Hollins. Norm Ash said, "It's amazing that by helping establish PiRC, I'm leaving a legacy behind at Hollins."

Seniors have found entertainment on campus and have driven thousands of miles on the roads of Virginia. They have been a part of the reenactment of established traditions and have created their own traditions as well. Seniors have been up a mountain, around the loop, and around the world. As Jacy Bartlett put it, "Being abroad was the most incredible gift Hollins gave me."

The Class of 2000 has seen a college change to a university. They have ushered in a new president and a new millennium. Most importantly, the Seniors have been beside each other, through late-night study sessions, broken hearts, celebrations, and triumphs. Sarah Neil summed it as, "Like that Swedish proverb-- with your friends shared joy is double joy and shared sorrows are half sorrows." Without a doubt, the Class of 2000 will go many great places and do many great things after Hollins-- but oh the places those Seniors have already been!

Celia Vest:
When I first arrived at Hollins I was nervous and had a vague feeling of impending change. I had no idea how much a few years would alter my life. I have had some of the happiest, saddest, most frustrating, and most trying times at Hollins. I never realized just how close and loving friends could be. Here I have made my best friends. Here I have made some of the best memories I have. I have had "Cecilia" sung to me from every walkway and in every building on campus. I came to Hollins and I was changed, I grew. I found my voice here.

Post Graduation

Life out of Hollins University

EDITORIAL BY KATIE SWEETMAN '00

Who is to say where we will be in a month, a year, or even ten years. There will come a point when we, the Class of 2000, will have to leave Hollins. We will pack up our cars, say good-bye, and drive out of the gates as students for one last time and disperse into the world to forge a new life. Some of us will go onto graduate school from here while others will move into their career of choice or find that their career of choice is eluding them. Some of us will even marry and start families.

Time is a hard thing to fathom when you realize that you are standing on the edge of a precipice and staring straight into a sea of uncertainty. My feelings cannot be that unlike those of my fellow classmates-- we have been stirring with feelings of panic since the beginning of second semester. Hopefully we will come to realize that we have our whole lives ahead of us and that everything will come in time. Our time at Hollins has gotten us to this point, now it is up to us to take that leap of faith.

Despite time and everything that will happen to us in the coming years, the Class of 2000 will never forget Hollins

One Last Thought

Melody Walker:
"We do not remember days we remember moments"
-Cesare Pavese

"Truly great friends are hard to find, difficult to leave, and impossible to forget."
-G. Randolph

Amanda Warner:
"I only went out for a walk and finally concluded to stay out till sundown, for going out, I found, I was really going in."
-John Muir

"If I seek the senses and skill of children, the information of a thousand books, the innocence of puppies, even the insights of my own cities past, I do so only, solely, and entirely that I might look well at the creek."
-Annie Dillard

Tiffany Watson:
To all my wonderful friends, may you always know how much you mean to me and how I have appreciated your love and support. To my professors who have pushed me to do my best and made me realize my full potential, I will always be grateful. And to Hollins, thanks for making these past four year a truly unbelievable experience filled with wonderful opportunities. For wherever I go, Hollins will be a part of me forever.

"Listen to the Song of Life."
-Katharine Hepburn

Abi Whiffen:
"I shall not grow conservative with age."
-Elizabeth Cady Stanton

Sarah Wright:
"A hundred years from now, it will not matter what my bank account was, the sort of house I lived in, or the kind of clothes I wore. But the world may be different because I was important in the life of a child."
-Unknown

ACADEMICS

Hollins was founded as a place of learning-- first as a seminary and then a college dedicated towards the education of women. This tradition continues today where women are still afforded an equal education to men. Times may have changed, but we must never take our education for granted.

FINE ARTS AT HOLLINS

Students let art, music, and dance be the landscape of their creativity

BY KATIE SWEETMAN '00

From dance, music, and art, fine arts at Hollins encompasses many aspects of the creative experience.

For some, it is chance to challenge themselves outside of traditional curriculum that draws students to classes like Intro to Photography. "It was painful at first, but I was glad that I had to take art and in the end I learned to appreciate art," said senior Biology major Antoinette Hillian.

Other students learned to expand their horizons. " I took Venetian Renaissance Art with Professor Dabb, which was about the paintings and sculpture of Venice," said Mira Zawadski '00, a Political Science major. "I liked the class because the professor made the topic interesting."

Fine Art also includes theater, music and dance. Over the years, Hollins has garnered attention around the country for its dance program, attracting students from all over to have the chance to work with dance professor Donna Faye Burchfield. The Hollins Repertory Dance Company even went as far winning a dance competition that took place in California.

As for music, some students take advantage of voice and instrument lessons. "I have enjoyed taking piano lessons this year because they help me to relax and focus on my studies better," said Lindsay Durango '03.

J-TERM ADVENTURES

January brings a change of pace as students go on internships, trips, or take classes

BY KRISTIN HUNT '02

January - a time for adventure, road trips, internships, applications, theses, and lasting memories.

While the majority of the freshman class stayed on campus taking fun classes, such as Introduction to Flight and Sculpture, others took the time to work at internships all over the country. Magazines, law firms, television shows, schools, and hospitals were just some of the places that accepted Hollins students as interns. "I really like how Hollins gives you the opportunity to intern. It was totally rad being in New York working at Seventeen magazine. I learned a lot in the office and out," said Jessica Manack '02.

However, some students decided to use Short Term as opportunity to travel. Groups of students went to places like Nepal, Germany, and Hawaii. "It was amazing. I would never have been able to do it without Hollins and Professor Taylor. It was definitely an experience," said sophomore Erin Wommack of her trip to Nepal.

For many, J-Term is the most relaxing time of the year, giving most students a much needed break before getting back into second semester or time to play catch up. Many seniors spent their J-Term working on theses, research, or senior projects. Though the month created varying experiences among students, some felt that it was even more stressful to work eight hours at an internship.

GOING BACK TO SCHOOL

Horizon students are redefining what it means to be a college student

BY KELLY MCCARTY '03

Though they are not the face of the average college student, Horizon students represent a burgeoning population here on the Hollins campus.

The program, which began in June 1974, was designed to address the needs of adults seeking a college degree. Horizon students differed from traditional students in that they were either over the age of twenty-five or had been out of school for four years. They also did not live on campus and some were only part-time students because of work or family obligations.

"I grew up in this area and I wanted to come to Hollins for all my life. I had a child and did not get to do it. Now, here I am forty-seven, going to college twenty-five years later than when I anticipated," said Horizon student Chrysee Meador.

Pam Rhodes, who is currently into her second year at Hollins, also had a similar experience. "I've known about Hollins since high school. I fell in love and ended up in West Virginia instead."

The majority of women found out about the program from word of mouth and ads that were occasionally placed in the Roanoke Times. "The women in the program are dynamic and they are here for the same reasons as traditional students," said Cheryl Hilton, director of the Horizon and Multicultural programs.

Students in the program are involved in all areas of campus life. They are active in clubs and organizations, participate in traditions such as Tinker Day, and some have even traveled abroad to London and Paris during Short Term.

Just as for traditional students, there is financial aid for Horizon students. Women who enroll also qualified for a Horizon grant and are three endowed scholarships available: the Hearst Foundation Grant, the Betty Trinkle Freeman scholarship, and the Lucy Levis Hazlegrove scholarship. These scholarships play a big part in making it possible for these women to return to school.

LONDON, PARIS, ROME . . .

Hollins and other abroad programs allow for the world to be the campus

BY KATIE SWEETMAN '00

Some see going abroad as a defining moment in a person's life and it is a choice that many Hollins women have been making since 1955 when Hollins started its first abroad program in Paris.

A half a century later, the abroad programs have grown to include Hollins Abroad London and programs in Spain, Mexico, Japan, Italy, Greece, and Ireland. "It was a living fairy tale," said junior Kelly McConnell, who studied in Cork, Ireland for the fall of 1999.

Many see going abroad as a growing opportunity and way in which to understand other cultures. Many also find that the experience causes them to change their perspective in life and see how other countries view Americans.

Senior C.J. Hawn, who was the first Hollins student in 26 years to go to Athens, found herself in an area not far from political upheaval. "The big thing for me was the Kosovo and Yugoslav conflict. I witnessed first hand another culture's perspective on the United States. It was really awesome to see a problem through someone else's eyes. I got to see the world through many people's eyes."

Despite individual experience, few can disagree that going abroad is a life altering experience. Catie Satterwhite '00, who went to Paris during the spring of 1999, states, "I think about [going abroad] every day and it's a year after I went. I want to go back. I feel really privileged to have that experience so early in my life."

ON THE CUTTING EDGE

Dana Science Building shows that students are interested in science and technology

BY KELLY MCCARTY '03

The Natural Sciences and Mathematics Department, Division III, offered a variety of experiences and educational opportunities for students.

To satisfy the distribution requirements, every student had to take four credits in Biology, Chemistry, Physics, or Psychology and four credits from Computer Sciences, Mathematics, or Statistics. There was also a new Information Technology requirement that could be fulfilled by taking a Computer Science course or a competency test.

Students who chose to take Intro to Computer Sciences learned vital computer skills, such as how to use PowerPoint and Microsoft Access. Students who took classes in the natural sciences performed experiments in animal dissection, DNA sequencing, and virus purification. They also designed animal-behavior experiments on box-elder bugs.

Many students who were majoring or minoring in a science took advantage of the abroad programs and studied science in another country. "At Hollins, the other courses such as writing, philosophy, and dance give reason to the scientific study. Science does not exist independently of human culture and we need to have some background in compassion and self-reflection that science alone does not provide," said senior Martha Tubman, a biology major. The science department helped provide an essential component of the students' education.

SPORTS

Back during a time when it was considered unladylike for women to participate in sports, Hollins was one of the few places where women's sports played a prominent role. In those days Hollins women played basketball and tennis, but now the choices are endless.

IN PURSUIT OF VICTORY

Volleyball Hits the Road in Search of Victory

The combination of a desire to win and a team willingness to put forth the effort necessary for turning goals into reality boosted the Hollins volleyball team to two back to back victories over Randolph Macon-Ashland and Ferrum early in the season.

Under the direction of first-year coach Courtney Jones, Hollins volleyball entered the season in full momentum with their eyes set on returning to the ODAC tournament for the second year in a row.

The team captured additional glory with a strong appearance at the Women's College Invitational tournament hosted by Agnes Scott College in Georgia over Fall Break. Though team members enjoyed leisure time shopping and dining in Atlanta, they did not lose focus during the trip and captured the runner-up title.

While a technicality kept the team out of the ODAC tournament later in the season, Hollins finished the season with just under a .500 record. "Though we faced several challenges during the season, we always strived to do our best for ourselves and for each other," said senior co-captain Sumner Menchero.

Field Hockey Ends With a 7-10 Record

Hollins field hockey kicked off the preseason in August with Freshman Athlete Orientation activities, including tubing and dinner at Coach Wendy Orrison's house, to mingle returning players from the 1998 season with newcomers to the program. The team combined fresh talent with the experience of returning players to lead the team to a 6-10 finish in ODAC and the chance to compete in the ODAC team tournament.

Dedication during the preseason and throughout the remainder of the season pushed the team onward and over opponents Salem College and Virginia Wesleyan. Georgia Luck '02 remarked that one of the highlights of the season was "beating teams that were confident they could beat us, like Virginia Wesleyan who we beat 3-1."

First year players found that the Hollins athletic environment gave individuals the support and skills they needed to succeed as individuals and as a team. "I never got to score a goal in high school, but here I got the opportunity to play offense and score my first goal," said freshman Kristin MacLeod.

FIELD HOCKEY BREAKS RECORDS

AIMING HIGH FOR THEIR GOALS

Soccer Gains New Talent, Beats Sweet Briar 4-0

With 11 new names appearing on the Hollins soccer roster this season, newcomers' enthusiasm and spirit helped to fuel early wins over Wells College on Sept. 5 and ODAC foe Sweet Briar on Sept. 18.

In general, although the team faced many challenges this season, the players stuck together through the ups and downs. Though players hailed from 14 different states, a lack in support, encouragement or team bonding was not an obstacle. Co-captains Alyssa Armster-Wikoff '00 and Darby Russell '00 led both on and off the field by keeping up team morale from preseason conditioning in August until the team's last game against Agnes Scott on Oct. 24.

Individual players faced challenges of their own, but overcame obstacles with the support of their teammates. Mid-fielder Ashleigh Feist '03 found it challenging to return to the field after taking off several years to cheerlead during high school. "I had not played in a couple of years because I cheered in high school, but it was good to get out on the field again," she said.

Although the team ended the season with a 11th in ODAC with a 1-10 record, team members believe this season is just the beginning of a new era in Hollins soccer. "This season brought us lots of talented players to Hollins and it can only get better from here," said junior Amanda Freeman, a returning forward.

Despite small numbers, Basketball sets sights high on goal

Despite the shortage of women in Hollins basketball uniforms this season, the team set out to improve on its 1-23 1998-1999 season record and accomplished their goal. With less than 9 players by the end of the season, both Coach Karen Harvey and Assistant Coach Susan Denbow were recruited to scrimmage during practices.

Though Hollins basketball finished the season with a 4-20 overall record, eight of the games they lost had a pointspread of 4 goals or less. Triumphs came over Hood, Agnes Scott, Villa Julie and Randolph Macon Woman's College.

Offensively, the team ended the season with a .700 free throw percentage and an average of 3.7 three-point goals per game. On the defense, Hollins managed to steal the ball away from their opponents 168 times in total. Lauren McKee '03 led the team in percentage of three point field goals, as did Cabell Martin '00 in regular field goals. Mandy Nichols '02 had the highest free throw average on the team with a .776 percentage. First year players Emily Ferrell and Allison Thornton also added points to the scoreboard throughout the season and ended the season with respective points per game.

SHOOTING FOR NEW GOALS

DIVING INTO A WINNING SEASON

Swimming Takes Second Place in ODAC, Third at Atlantic States

Powered by returning team members and eight new first year swimmers like Julie Tucker, the Hollins swimming team struck gold with a 12-2 season record. Long J-Term practices and team wide dedication helped the team achieve divisional and statewide recognition while speeding past strong ODAC competitors. "J-term was tough, but with each other we made it through," said freshman Laura Orcutt. Tough practices led to one of the season's milestone events with a 137-124 victory over arch-foe Sweet Briar on Dec. 3.

Focused attitudes and the desire to improve fueled team members to achieve individual goals. Alicia Kemnitz '02 felt that one of the highlights of the season was seeing senior Mary Lott Austill win first in her heat as a first year swimmer for Hollins.

Triumph also came for the team when they placed third at Atlantic States competition and with the announcement of Coach Lynda Calkins as Coach of the Year.

Yet, for many, true success as a Varsity team came from team bonding. Encouragement among team members was essential for the team's 7-0 winning streak at the beginning of the season. For Kemnitz '02, "the unity and family atmosphere" on the team distinguished this season from past.

Fencing Meets the Challenge of a New Year and a New Coach

Under the guidance of recent Hollins graduate Rayna Stengel, the fencing team challenged Division I schools like Temple and Penn State to earn the achievement of being ranked overall third in the state of Virginia, with individual rankings as well.

The addition of a new weapon, the saber, to the traditional epee and foil teams presented a new challenge, as did the length of the season. "Fencing is a long season and one of our challenges was holding the team together when spirits lagged," said sophomore Lauren Coleman.

However, the team entered their season with a determined outlook. "We were working with a new weapon and not a lot of experienced fencers, but we set out to win as much as we could and give saber a strong first year," said freshman Deborah Gilbert.

The combination of hardwork and skilled effort led the saber team to a second place finish in state competition and an invitation to the National Intercollegiate Women's Fencing Association. Both the foil and epee teams took respective third places in the state as well.

Outside of competition and lengthy roadtrips, the team stressed the importance of academics and finished the season with the highest team GPA for the fifth consecutive year. -by Kelly Strawderman '03

FENCING TAKES STATE BY STORM

RIDING COMES OUT ON TOP AGAIN

Team goes on to win Reserve National Team Championship

For the sixth consecutive year, the Hollins riding team qualified to compete in the National Intercollegiate Horse Show held at Georgia's Olympic Equestrian Center after edging out ODAC, regional and zone competition.

Carrying on the Hollins equestrian tradition, the Hollins riding team not only captured the ODAC championship, but soared above competition from schools such as Duke, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Virginia Tech and University of Virginia to finish the season first in IHSA's Zone 4.

Throughout the season, each team member excelled in individual competition to carry the team into higher prestige. Self-discipline and dedication were necessary ingredients for individual achievements inside the ring.

"The equestrian team was one of the best first year experiences of my life here at Hollins. The coaches and riders are so focused on being the best they can be, it makes you want to do your best as well," said freshman Jessica Parker, who competed in the Open Hunter division.

Hillary Schreiber '00, Emily Chewning '01, Jene Kapela '01, Tara Kelly '03, Megan McGarrigle '03, Meghan Konrad '03 and Hanna Bachrach '02 were selected as members of Hollins' Miller's Collegiate Cup Team for national competition. Though Hollins finished one point behind champion Mount Holyoke for the title of Reserve Team Championship, Hollins was the only equestrian team to earn points in every class.

"Every Hollins rider contributed in every class, and the entire team's performance was exquisite," said Nancy Peterson, riding instructor. -byKelly Strawderman '03

With 17 new faces, lacrosse clears a .500 overall record

Upon entering the season with only six returning players, experienced team members Georgia Luck '02 and Amanda Freeman '01 feared that the amount of newcomers to the program would be the greatest challenge that this year's team faced.

With only six of the 17 newcomers having played before on an official team, it appeared the team had a long way to go to even think of accomplishing their .500 goal. However, "the new players ended up not being a challenge because their skills caught on quickly and each person was extremely dedicated to the team," said Luck '02.

Returning players Kate Wagner '00 and Emily Chewning '01, who served as tri-captains along with Freeman '01, kept up team morale and offered insightly instruction.

"I had never played lacrosse before and I was so thankful for those who had experience on the team, especially for their patience," said freshman Colleen O'Brien.

Though each player set out with individual goals in mind, the determination to win as a team was never too far behind. Successes came with a last minute defeat over Greensboro and a 14-4 triumph over Sweet Briar late in the season.

Though the team missed out on advancing to the ODAC tournament with a 8-9 loss to Bridgewater College, individual improvements have kept the team fired up for the upcoming season. -by Kelly Strawderman '03

LACROSSE- A SEASON OF NEW BEGINNINGS

RAIN, RAIN, GO AWAY

In Spite of Rainy Season, Softball Holds Out for Traditional Defeat of Sweet Briar

Rainy game days seem to be a growing tradition in Hollins softball. For the third year in a row, Hollins softball struggled through at least one game with the plip-plop sound of rain hitting the brim of their hats. Though being a club sport as opposed to Varsity level of competition allowed more freedom in scheduling and rescheduling games, team players showed enthusaism and a love for the game that brought sunshine to any cloudy game day. "Softball was just a fun sport to play. The coaching was great and we had so many great laughs and times on the field," said freshman Carrington Kildruff.

Traditionally coached by returning or senior members of the team, Sumner Menchero '00 and Jessica Meadows '02 stepped up to the plate in their roles as co-coaches for this year's team.

Although the level of pressure was not as high for softball as in other Varsity sports, Menchero '00 found it challenging to raise support and interest in the team. "Sometimes it was hard to get people to come out and play, but for the most part, we had a great bunch of players who were committed to playing and having fun." Rowdy roadtrips in the vans were just one of the many instances where players found an instance to goof off or get in a good laugh. Nevertheless, the team hit the field with determination to do their best. Success came with a defeat over foe Sweet Briar while on the road in Lynchburg. -by Kelly Strawderman '03

Tennis Takes ODAC By Storm

According to coach Leslie Bernard, the Hollins tennis team started off the fall season strong. "The team is shaping up so well," she said. "We have a great group of returnees and first-year students."

Newcomer Alexis Kubista '03 expressed her excitement about playing with her teammates. "They are so supportive, it's insane," she said. "They are just fantastic." Cocaptain Wendi Bousfield '02 offered similar praise. "The team has come together really well. There is such a positive attitude."

The team is building on last year's successes. During the spring 1999 season, the Hollins team came in fourth in the Old Dominion Athletic Conference championship, an excellent showing given the strong competitive field. In 1998, Hollins finished in second place.

The team's 2-1 fall 1998 record qualified them to travel to the Southeast Regional Championships for the second year in a row. This tournament invites the top eight teams in the Southern Region to compete for four spots to represent the Southern Region in the NCAA Division III Championships. Hollins' team was let by Liz Schnare '01 and Cristen Morgan '99, who earned regional rankings of 16th and 19th respectively. Liz and Cristen also paired for doubles competition and earned a number-eight ranking in the South.

SERVING UP SUCCESS

ORGANIZATIONS

Much of Hollins history is reflected in the organizations that have existed at one time or another. A hundred years ago, students were involved in social clubs. By the sixties and seventies organizations mirrored the political climate of the time. The clubs that students are involved in now serve to illustrate the changing interests of our time.

ADA
BORN NOT MADE

ADA, the third oldest organization on campus, was founded in 1907. However, only the members knew exactly what ADA stood for.

Every Tuesday, this highly visible group could be seen during lunch. Wearing odd costumes, they entered the dining hall skipping and singing. One of their more legendary activities though, was spudding. Spudding happened in both the Fall and Spring and was how new members were recruited and initiated.

Despite their reputation for crazy behavior and silly songs, ADA also had a service oriented side. This past October, they hosted the Red Cross Blood Drive.

When asked why she joined, Emily Wheat '00 said "because it gave me an excuse to act like an idiot." Wheat also added that "we don't have to think about what to wear on Tuesdays." -by Antoinette Hillian '00

FREYA

In 1903, a group of women founded Freya in the hope that the bond of a common purpose would help them reinforce the ideals of truth, beauty and love by which they sought to live, the ideals of Hollins' founder Charles Lewis Cocke. They chose the name of the Norse goddess Freya, the legendary embodiment of happiness, joy and true living for the organization. Freya's membership reflects all aspects of the Hollins community.

Membership in Freya does not mean that a woman has achieved the ideals for which the organization upholds. Freya members attempt to carry the spirit of Hollins with them daily and work toward the intangible ideals of the organization.

Freya can best fulfill its goals and purpose by being recognized for the ideals on which it stands, not for the identity of its members. The anonymity of its members prevents the organization from becoming just another service group on campus. Involvement is very spiritual and sacred to members and anonymity is upheld even after graduation. One needs no recognition, no thanks. Freya's reward is a better Hollins, for Freya is Hollins.

Freya aids the community with two funds, the Freya Scholarship Fund and the Freya Emergency Relief fund. The scholarship fund was established in 1966 through generous contributions of more than 700 alumnae members of Freya. The scholarship offers aid to a student who demonstrates merit, need and an attempt to live according to the ideals of Hollins. The emergency relief fund, maintained largely by gifts from alumnae, is available to students facing medical, academic or transportation crises.

Freya's walks are a tradition that has continued in order to maintain tangible contact with the community and to draw attention to events or issues of college or national significance. The candles carried symbolize hope and faith. Ironically, walking, the least of Freya's activities, is the only contact most members of the Hollins community will ever have of the organization. Walking is symbolic and its strength lies in its simplicity. The walk allows for a visual representation of the Hollins community and its ideals. We encourage everyone to take a moment and join us during our walks by watching from their rooms or the porches of the buildings of Front Quad.

As we enter the new millennium we encourage all facets of Hollins to reevaluate their involvement in the community.

"But in the discrepancy that falls between what one could be and what one is, there lies the great challenge..."

Sincerely,
The members of Freya

THESPINSTER

First published in 1898, Spinster is the oldest organization and publication on campus.

For over a hundred years, the yearbook has been a integral part of the Hollins community by chronicling the experience of the Hollins woman. However in the past five years the Spinster fell into an apathetic neglect, suffering a fate that was mirrored in other Hollins clubs-- poor participation and lack of drive.

The editors for the 1999-2000 book, Katie Sweetman '00 and Antoinette Hillian '00, sought to resurrect the yearbook to reflect its past glory. "I saw a lot of potential in the book-- it was a lot like an old house. The Spinster just needed someone who cared about it," said Sweetman.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

SGA has had a great year. 1999 started off with a bang with Orientation and Oktoberfest and the freshman class really poured forth a lot of energy into the Hollins community. Though we can always use more people, the commitment that SGA showed this year, not only to the Organization but to the school as well, was outstanding. The spring has been fabulous with 'Water Cress' and Cotilion at Hotel Roanoke, as well as elections. We are fortunate to have many returning members next year, so their energy and commitment should continue.

Students helping achieve rewarding experiences

S.H.A.R.E. is a great organization because as staff members, we have the opportunity to help match students with their desired volunteer experience. Staff also has the rewarding experience of volunteering among the agencies that we work with. It has been fun to plan different events to reach different areas of the Hollins community.

In addition, S.H.A.R.E. stands for "students helping achieve rewarding experiences" and we have found that service is just that, an extremely rewarding experience. It builds character and provides the necessary perspective to decide what is truly important in life.

ANNOUNCEMENT FOR THE 58th SESSION.

HOLLINS INSTITUTE will open its fifty-eighth session on the 19th of September, 1920, with its accommodations increased from [illegible] boarders.

This is a school for girls and young ladies in which all the solicitude, watchcare, supervision and inspiration of an intelligent, refined Virginia home prevail.

Literature, Languages, Histories, Sciences, Art, Elocution, etc. are taught under high standards. The faculty and management is composed of ten gentlemen and twenty ladies. The eclectic system is used. Diplomas are issued in all departments, each of which is presided over by a University graduate.

The school is located on the Norfolk and Western Railway (Shenandoah Division) seven miles from Roanoke City, a region abounding in scenery beautiful beyond description, and redolent of health.

There are six main buildings, all of brick, with extensive verandas, all connected by covered ways. It owns five hundred acres of land and valuable mineral springs—sulphur and chalybeate—which conduce largely to the health and vigor of growing girls.

It is a delightful home for girls during the period of development, and girls from all sections here meet and delight to sojourn.

Write for catalogue.

Elizabeth,

We are so proud of you. It doesn't seem possible that our "baby" is now a college graduate and ready to take on the world. May you do so armed with the knowledge you've achieved - the wisdom you've acquired - and the love that has always been there. As you are now truly "out-ee" - let the fun begin!! We love you very much . . . Mom and Dad XOXOXO

Some Parting Words:

One Last Hurrah from the Editors of the Spinster 2000

So it's May 22 and even though we graduated yesterday, our butts are still stuck in Roanoke. Why, you ask? Two words: The Spinster. I guess duty calls and when you are the captain of this sinking ship, you have no choice but to hold on to the helm for dear life.

While working our butts off today to give the book one final push, we were reminded of the reasons why we are glad that this is it. Though we love the Spinster, there were some serious hurdles to overcome. The main one would be the growing holes in the office courtesy of the Moody renovation project. Not to mention the roaming workers who liked to invade our turf. We also won't miss begging for money, the black dots of doom that would take over the computer screen, the 1999 legacy, phone calls from irate alumnae wanting their yearbooks, AWOL editors, and a decided lack of equipment.

But don't get us wrong, the Spinster was a great experience. Back in September, we had no clue what the heck we were doing. Some of our more seasoned staff members must of thought we were absolutely dumb. Although we had never worked on a yearbook before, let alone been the editors of one, we were determined to get it right.

There were other Spinster highlights: we got wined and dined at the Hotel Roanoke, love and admiration from our fellow students, and satisfaction of job done well.

We hope you enjoy the product of all our hard work. We also have to thank the Spinster staff, our advisor Phyllis Zorn, and our Jostens' rep Tina Cannon for putting up with us as we tried to work it out. We wish Kelly and Erica the best of luck next year as they try to fill our shoes (and use our editor beating sticks).

Peace Out.
